Energy can be transformed, transferred, stored or dissipated.
Energy always transforms from useful to less useful forms.
Energy is always conserved. It cannot be created or destroyed.